- Literary anthology of leading French and NZ authors to celebrate 20 years of a writers residency
- Supported by Embassy of France in New Zealand and WellingtonNZ

Since 2002, 40 writers from France and Aotearoa New Zealand have made an historic cottage on a steep street in Thorndon their home while they write, the bush of Te Ahumairangi behind them and Wellington Harbour in front. To celebrate 20 creative years, the Randell Cottage Writers Trust has commissioned Room To Write, asking the writers for contributions that spring from the idea of 'looking back'. All the work is presented in both English and French, with introductory essays by Dame Fiona Kidman and Beverley Randell Price.
